Metrorail Silver Line in Loudoun County

Washington Metropolitan Area Transportation Authority (WMATA) will soon provide Silver Line Metrorail Service to and from the Dulles Airport, Loudoun Gateway and Ashburn Metro Stations in Loudoun County. Service is currently estimated to begin spring 2022.

While we do not yet have a date for the opening of Silver Line Phase 2, we wanted to share with you that the County has created a new Silver Line specific webpage. The new webpage is available to you now and will be updated with timely and accurate information as it becomes available.

The Metropolitan Washington Airports Authority (MWAA) is responsible for construction of the Silver Line Phase 2 expansion. Upon completion and testing of the new system by MWAA, ownership of the Silver Line Phase 2 expansion will be transferred to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transportation Authority (WMATA) who will assume responsibility for operation and maintenance of the system.

Remaining actions prior to initiation of revenue service (the opening of Silver Line Phase 2 for public use):

- Additional issues that need to be addressed by MWAA.

- Once accepted by WMATA, WMATA and the independent Washington Metrorail Safety Commission (WMSC) will begin a testing period to ensure safety and operational readiness of the system.
- Upon successful completion of WMATA's safety and operational testing, WMATA will announce an Operational Readiness Date (ORD), with approximately 90 days of additional operational testing to follow before service to the public officially begins.

We will keep you informed as additional information relevant to the opening of Silver Line Phase 2 becomes available.
